

In a continuous effort to serve our customers, Ultralex would like to inform you about the following notification that we received from FedEx Freight.

· Effective Immediately, FedEx Freight will no longer accept roll widths or skid lengths of 10 ft. or larger from our California warehouse.

We apologize for the inconvenience; however, this is a decision made by FedEx Freight and not by Ultralex Systems. Alternatively, we are able to ship from our CA warehouse via many other common LTL carriers. The following carriers provide regular pickups from Ultralex: Old Dominion (preferred), ESTES (preferred), UPS Freight and other regional carriers.

Please note, that our New Jersey and Georgia warehouses remain able to ship rolls of any width via FedEx Freight, however, due to handling issues and progressive shipping constraints, Ultralex does not recommend the use of FedEx Freight and will no longer use FedEx Freight for Ultralex scheduled shipments where an alternative carrier is available.

For any questions regarding this notice or if you need assistance in arranging alternative accounts for another carrier, please contact your inside sales representative.
